

Sabatti TLD White Fluted rifle

- NEW for 2021 -

New look for the Sabatti TLD long range shooting rifle, now also available with a fully blued fluted barrel and an original stock finished with “skulls”!

The Sabatti TLD White Fluted bolt-action rifle embodies the long years of Sabatti experience in the manufacture of high-accuracy firearms. The Sabatti TLD White Fluted rifle stands out for the design of the stock and the barrel, as well as for the mix of technology that makes it suited to any kind of long-range sport shooting activities.

The TLD White Fluted was the first rifle to feature Sabatti own, revolutionary Blizzard action, with a three-locking lugs bolt head for a fast, short 60-degree throw. Both the bolt and the receiver are machined out of solid steel billet; the knob is installed on the cocking handle via a 5/16" thread and can be replaced with any similar aftermarket component. The bolt is heat treated, chrome-lined and rectified to reach the desired level of thickness; the process returns a very low level of surface roughness, which couples with the full surface fluting of the bolt body for market-leading levels of smoothness and silence in operation. The new 17-4PH extractor offers superior resistance when used with high pressure loads.

The main characteristics of the Sabatti TLD White Fluted is the new stock-action coupling solution, with a rear Pillar and a newly designed front V-shaped Recoil Lug – both in Ergal 55 and embedded in the stock – with superior performances. The system leaves the action “floating” inside the stock, resulting in a drastic reduction of the coupling tensions and evident improvement in terms of accuracy.

The Sabatti TLD White Fluted rifle comes with a 27.9" cold-hammer forged barrel, with a 1.1" muzzle diameter and Sabatti own, patented MRR multi-radial rifling pattern – well-known and appreciated for its high accuracy, low bullet deformation factor, and ease of cleaning. Sabatti MRR barrels offer a longer service life, a higher resistance to heating and superior accuracy over standard Match barrels, even with standard commercial ammunition.

All barrels on Sabatti TLD White Fluted rifles are matte blued and fluted to reduce weight and optimize heat dissipation.

The white and black stock of the TLD White Fluted rifle is captivatingly decorated with a “skulls” design, patterned on the classic style of F-Class long-range shooting rifle stocks, and is manufactured out of a very strong multi-layer wood laminate. The Sabatti TLD White Fluted stock is adjustable for length of pull through the use of a set of factory-issued spacers, and comes with a likewise fully adjustable cheek riser.

Other features of the Sabatti TLD White Fluted rifle include a scope mounts-ready receiver; a five-rounds detachable proprietary magazine; and a choice of a three-lever Match-type trigger or a brand new double-stage DMST trigger, both factory-accurized to offer class-leading levels of performance.
